Making Ready for Next Season

As the spring rain continue to fall, we need to think about the upcoming duck season and how to make things better at the Pope Lake Hunt Club. Hopefully the weather in Canada provides good nesting for the ducks this year.

At Pope Lake the planting has started. We will be replacing the South corn field this year with Alfalfa except next to the South Lake where we will have rows of corn to cover the blinds next to the lake. North of the path to the blinds we are planting corn from the tree line down to the North Lake.

The South and North Lakes will be planted if the water recedes, and they dry out other wise we will leave as native wapatu. We will be having several work parties this summer to try and get thing back to normal after the hi water. As always, we will have our Trap shoots in June, July, and August. The date and times will be posted in the Newsletter and notices will be sent out a few weeks before the shoots. Hope to see you this summer.
